DIFFERENTIATORS

01 The certificate is generated from the record

Every seal number on a Certificate of Destruction reconciles against the custody entries behind it, or the certificate does not issue. It is not typed up after the fact.

02 Exceptions are written into the record, not out of it

A seal that does not match is logged with the time, the operator, and the correction, and both the original entry and the correction are retained. A vendor whose records never contain an exception is not running a record.

03 Standards are cited, not gestured at

NIST SP 800-88 Rev. 2 by sanitization category, and FBI CJIS §5.8 / MP-6 by control. CJIS does not reference SP 800-88 anywhere; we do not claim it does.

Listed because a contracting officer will establish all of it anyway, and finding it here is faster and cheaper for both parties than finding it during a responsibility determination.
